DOZENS of vulnerable children seeking asylum in the UK have gone missing from Haringey Council's care in the past three years.

Staff at the troubled authority have lost a total of 29 children since 2007 - two of whom have never been traced - information exclusively obtained by the Advertiser reveals.

Youngsters who have suffered unimaginable horrors in war-torn nations such as Iraq and the Democratic Republic Of Congo are among those who vanished from the council's care, being placed at risk from ruthless child traffickers or even being exploited to work as prostitutes.

Two young Romanian children who were lost in 2008 have never been traced and two more Romanian youngsters, who had already been married off, returned to Romania without the council's knowledge.

Though the rest of the missing children were eventually found, the revelation has shocked child protection experts who are aghast that the authority still reeling from the Baby Peter scandal has been found to have failed yet again.

Lynne Chitty, an expert on child trafficking who has 23 years' experience in social care, warned of the danger of these helpless children falling into the clutches of child traffickers. She said: "We are talking about the most vulnerable young children who don't have choices.

"They may owe people money or feel they have to flee. Sometimes young people will claim asylum in the UK and go missing extremely quickly or perhaps after several months.

"Vietnamese, Chinese and Afghan children are often brought into the country clandestinely and then picked up once they have landed. A lot of the African countries have problems with this too.

"The traffickers tell their families they can get their son or daughter a really good job in Europe where they can earn lots of money and send some back home. But when they get here that is not the case. They get taken into care by local authorities and then they disappear.

"We can help these young people but we have to hold on to them long enough to do that work and that is not happening."
Figures show that 330 children aged between nine and 17 vanished from local authority care in the UK between April 2008 and August 2009. Social workers believe many of them were targeted for prostitution by well-organised and cunning traffickers exploiting asylum rules. It is alleged they are told to claim asylum and are then placed in the care of the local authority – from which many then vanish. The Home Office Action Plan on human trafficking, published in 2007, stated the "highly mobile nature" of asylum-seeking children placed them at particular risk of disappearing from the system.

The 29 children who went missing from

Haringey included 18 boys and 11 girls from Bulgaria, Eritrea, Albania, Iraq, Romania, The Democratic Republic Of Congo, Algeria,

Minister confirms: no evidence for A&E cut

HEALTH minister Mike O'Brien admitted during a parliamentary debate last week that he is "sceptical" about closing The Whittington Hospital's A&E and has yet to be convinced it should go.

The future of The Whittington took centre-stage during a lively parlia-mentary debate last Wednesday as Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone grilled Mr O'Brien about proposals to close it down. She persuaded him to admit there is no clinical case for closing the Highgate Hill hospital's A&E and to concede that the £30million invested there in recent years would be wasted if it were shut down.

Seven draft options have been the absence of real clinical evidence leaked about the future of hospitals in the region – four of which end 24-hour A&E at The Whittington.

the absence of real clinical evidence and the neglect of aspects that impact on medical training."

Mr O'Brien said: "We've invested

Speaking in parliament, Ms Featherstone said: "Shocking health inequalities exist in London: a man will live seven-and-a-half years longer living in Kensington than in Haringey. We desperately need better healthcare and we welcome the fact that a review is under way.

"However, we are worried about the way in which the review is being conducted, the work that is not being done, the use of wrong and dangerous assumptions, the appalling lack of proper or meaningful consultation, and the neglect of aspects that impact on medical training."

£30m in it, and want to ensure the hospital continues to develop. I'd want to see a good clinical case – I never have – for closing it. We'll ensure any case is looked at with care. I'm sceptical about closing A&E at The Whittington and I'd find it difficult to accept the case for that."

Ms Featherstone added: "The minister confirms what we said all along, but I'm worried that these may be just warming words. We cannot relax until we've seen the back of these proposals - hands off our A&E!"

Stephen Conroy, programme director for NHS North Central London, said: "Many of the comments made in the parliament debate are com-pletely unfounded. We're not yet in the formal public consultation process. We're engaging in an open dialogue with local people about the challenges we face and the case for change here in north central London. "We understand how strongly people feel and that underscores the importance of sharing our thinking with them now, while we are formulating possible future options. Core to the healthcare review for North Central London is to improve quality of care for all of the sector's residents.

'If these were indigenous children we'd do everything to find them – this is just racism'

NEWS

☐ Continued from front Zimbabwe, Afghanistan and Vietnam. A 15-year-old and 17-year-old were living under a private fostering arrangement when they came into the council's care - and were then lost. A 19- and 20-year-old from Romania who were married, returned to their native country without the council knowing what had happened to them.

"These young people can be forced to work in cannabis factories, often getting locked in as virtual prisoners. Girls can be forced to work in brothels or as domestic slaves, exploited in shops or restaurants – they could be exposed to all these things. The young people are often told they can't trust anybody in authority, the police, or even any white people, so don't speak out to get help.
"I know local authorities are strapped for cash and I understand that - but this is child protection. Staff are very hung up on assessments but it should be about safeguarding first and then doing assessments. We need to be taking fingerprints and videos of them so that straight away we stand a better chance of finding that young person. Otherwise we have nothing and they are lost."

Talking generally about the failings in the UK, she added: "If these were indigenous children going missing, we would be doing everything to find them – this is just institutional racism."

Ms Chitty also urged the government to establish specialist accommodation for child asylum-seekers including specialist foster placements.

But a Haringey Council spokeswoman insisted the authority does everything to try to safeguard asylum-seeking children, including placing them in "suitable accommodation", to keep them safe. She said: "We ensure we assess the risk of trafficking and exploitation as part of initial assessment and core assessment and implement pan-London child protection procedures appropriately. We also refer young people who are suspected of being trafficked to the National Referral Mechanism – a national register for children who go missing."

But Ms Chitty said these safeguarding processes were not enough.

"The UK Action Plan is wonderful but it is acting, rather than talking about acting, which matters," she said.
"Talk is cheap."

Consultation kicks off for fairer school funding review to give borough pupils a better deal

By Lucy Purdy

THE CRUCIAL consultation which will decide the funding fate of thousands of schoolchildren in Haringey has officially begun.

The long-anticipated government consultation on the future parents and governors in Haringey are now urged to respond in force to help change the formula which leaves the borough's pupils receiving £1,100 less per year than those in neighbouring boroughs.

Those driving the Fair Deal For Haringey Children campaign want anyone involved in education in the borough to respond to the consultation, explaining exactly how their children would reap the benefits of a fairer settlement. Though Haringey's teachers earn a higher "inner London" wage and have to deal with inner-London issues such as poverty and children who do not speak English as a first language, the schools receive outer-London funding from the government.

The best option for Haringey under the new consultation is thought to be the "hybrid" option which is likely to mean a funding increase of 6.8 per cent for Haringey – an extra £10.8million Haringey NUT secretary Tony Brockman urged people to seize the moment. He said: "It would be an absolute tragedy if all the support we have had came to nothing and the campaign got mired in the general election.

"We need to make the sharpest response where it is likely to be most effective.

"I believe we can win this campaign for the benefit of Haringey's children."

In launching the Investing For The Future consultation, government chiefs said they were seeking a funding distribution which "more accurately reflects current need" and that schools serving disadvantaged communities were of particular concern. The consultation reads: "It is essential that the system for allocating resources across local authorities for schools is fair and reflects the needs and circumstances of the pupils and the areas that they serve. Resources should be targeted where there is the greatest need.'

The Fair Deal For Haringey Children campaign has the backing of cross-party politicians and teaching unions as well as Haringey Council.

The results of the consultation will be published in the summer.

Science is plane sailing for top-flight students

HIGH-FLYING pupils went to infinity and beyond last week as they learned the science behind a good paper aeroplane as part of National Science and Engineering Week.

Children at Alexandra Park School tested paper aeroplanes, listened to talks from the National School Astronomer, Dr Paul Roche, and navigated their way around the solar system in Europe's largest inflatable planetarium as part of their studies.

The school, based in Bidwell Gardens, is one of 30 space-specialist schools in the country and is also a specialist science school. Pupils even learned about the world beyond the Earth in PE and art lessons.

Alexandra Park headteacher Michael McKenzie said: "Science is such an exciting subject, but it doesn't have to be restricted to the lab.

"During National Science And Engineering Week we gave our students an opportunity to learn more about space and flight in interesting and unusual ways.

"Hopefully we have inspired our young people to be the scientists of the future."

Students from Alexandra Park were joined by pupils from Rhodes Avenue Primary School, based in Rhodes Avenue, Wood Green, for some activities.

Learners and college staff protest at cuts, taking a step closer to striking

By Michael Carroll

STAFF at colleges in Haringey are being balloted for strike action after education chiefs failed to rule out redundancies in the face of swingeing government cuts.

Local union representatives have decided to take action in response to far-reaching cuts in higher education recently announced by the government. Jenny Sutton, branch secretary for the University And College Union at the College Of Haringey, Enfield And North East London, is so incensed by the cutbacks that she has launched a political campaign to unseat higher education minister David Lammy on his home turf of Tottenham in the forthcoming general election.

Ms Sutton also wants to raise awareness of the plight of Tottenham staff and students as she explained to the Advertiser: "A recent study has shown that men in Tottenham face such deprivation that they're likely to live an average of 17 years fewer than men from other parts of London.

"Education is key to winning the news.haringey@nlhnews.co.uk fight against poverty, unemployment, demoralisation and ill health.

"We need to invest more in further education in these harsh economic times rather than pulling up the drawbridge for young people now.'

Ms Sutton took the campaign to stop cuts in jobs and courses to the streets of central London on Saturday when 1,000 trade unionists and campaigners marched from King's College to Downing Street. Meanwhile, students protested outside CHENEL's Tottenham campus in High Road on Friday.

A spokesman for CHENEL said: "All sections of the college are currently carrying out business planning and our managers will be looking at how to implement funding cuts. This means it is too early to confirm whether or not there will be redundancies.

"We are keeping our staff as fully informed as possible and working as hard as we can to minimise the effect of the cuts on our learners and local communities.

Founded by political activist John La Rose, rare collection records black British culture

By Lucy Purdy

THE future of a unique collection of documents and books kept in Finsbury Park has been assured after it received a £206,000 Heritage Lottery grant.

The George Padmore Institute, in Stroud Green Road, was founded by political activist John La Rose who has been described as an "inspirational presence" in black British and Caribbean culture. Originally from Trinidad, Mr La Rose died in 2006. He was described by novelist and playwright Ngugi wa Thiong'o as having a "generous, searching, modern renaissance spirit".

The archive of more than 13,000 files and 460 books will now be sorted, catalogued and made available online for research after the grant was announced last week. Writer Margaret Busby described the archive as the "collective history of black Britain".

"Every day I am reminded how urgent it is to be able to share John's experiences and the material around his life and work," she said.

About 35 volunteers will now help archivists in the five-year project which will also involve local primary schools. The institute, a registered charity, also organises public events such as book readings and trustees plan to hold an exhibition when the project is complete.

Sarah White, the partner of the late Mr La Rose who is also involved with the institute, said she was thrilled to hear of the grant.

She told the Advertiser: "We are excited to get the money because this important archive will mean making a lot of useful material available to the black community and beyond."

Sustainable living promoted in event for sharing ideas

By Lucy Purdy

A NEW initiative to promote a low-carbon, sustainable way of living was launched in Tottenham at the weekend with a skillshare event.

The free, all-day event at Tot-tenham Chances club, in High Road, on Sunday, included workshops on growing your own vegetables, knitting, bicycle repair, renewable energy and recycling. It kickstarted a new sustainability initiative called Sustottenham which aims to get Tottenham residents living more sustainably.

One of the organisers Wendy Keenan, who lives near West Green Road in Tottenham, said she had been overwhelmed by the way people came together on the day and the skills on offer.

She told the Advertiser: "The whole idea of the day was to get people to spend quality time with one another and to raise the profile of skills.

About 150 people came from all different communities and age groups and we did a whole variety of things together as well as enjoying some fantastic vegan food. We also had some great conversations about sustainability and permaculture and heard music and poetry."

The skill-share was one of a raft of planned events which members of the Sustainable Haringey network plan to tour the borough over the coming months. Sustottenham is the latest of a number of residentled initiatives in the borough which aim to bring about a more community-focused, lowcarbon society, such as the Crouch End And Hornsey Area Transition Initiative, Transition Finsbury Park and the Muswell Hill Sustainability Group. These are all part of the Sustainable Haringey network.

Sustottenham organisers hope to set up social enterprise around making and repairing bicycles in the coming months.

Prosecutors are failing to prepare for cases adequately

By Lucy Purdy

PROSECUTORS in Haringey have been condemned for "weaknesses right across the board" in bringing criminals

The borough is one of 12 in London rated "poor", with inspectors finding chronic failings in the Crown Prosecu-tion Service, including failing to prop-erly prepare cases before going to trial.

The number of the borough's cases ending in a successful conviction at crown court in Haringey is just 62.7 per cent, significantly lower than the national average of 80.7 per cent.

And just 82.1 per cent of cases heard by magistrates ended in a conviction compared to a national average of 86.1 per cent, found the report released last week by the CPS Inspectorate.

Outcomes in cases of serious violence and sexual offences were also significantly below the London average and staff were also told they must improve their service to both victims and witnesses.

Stephen Wooler, HM chief inspector of the CPS Inspectorate, said: "There are weaknesses across the board in relation to the borough's management of its casework. These need to be tackled if the low level of successful outcomes in relation to both magistrates' court and crown court cases is to improve. Performance has suffered and now needs to improve to provide an acceptable standard of service to the courts and the public in Haringey."

Steve Morris, acting borough crown prosecutor in Haringey, admitted the service was going through "challenging times" but said staff were working hard to improve.

He said: "Case preparation and progression are important aspects that we are urgently working to improve.

"We are training staff to become paralegal officers and assistants to increase our coverage of crown court cases and enable better and more thorough preparation and progression of work which will in turn result in more successful prosecutions.

"Proper resources and clear struc-tures and processes will improve case preparation, ensuring we have the strongest cases possible when we get to court and providing a better service to victims and witnesses.'

With the expertise of an early years professional

An early years professional (EYP) will further enhance the quality and dynamism of your setting, ensuring the children in your care thrive during those crucial first five years of their development.

So why not employ an EYP to work with you to lead and develop excellent practice? Alternatively, you could support one of your employees on an EYPS Training Pathway as they work to attain the gold standard in early years.

The benefits to you of EYPS:

- it ensures your new EYP has the skills and knowledge to lead and support their colleagues;
- the training is fully funded so it won't cost you, or your employee, a penny;
- additional funding is available for supply cover for an absent trainee;
- employing an EYP will help your setting stand out from other nurseries in the area.

The best of both: being a mother and a manager

The birth of her second son inspired Carrol Powell to make the switch from working as a Primary school teacher to working in early years.

When Carrol wanted to return to work after the birth of her son, she had difficulty finding a nursery or childminder that she felt would cater for the development and learning of her son. Carrol decided to leave teaching to care for her own children. This was a decision which led her to change her direction, to work with children under five and to start up her own pre-school

Carrol now manages five staff and over 60 children in a Blackheath pre-school. "What's great is the real impact that we have on preparing children before they go into mainstream education. We help to develop the vital skills that they need for entry into school life. Apart from basic reading and writing skills, we develop the very important personal and social skills needed to develop relationships with others. With young children, you are able to see the changes very early on and by the time they leave your care, you have a sense of achievement, knowing that you have helped them build their learning foundations for their future."

"I also love the flexibility and work-life balance of my new role. I get more time to spend with my own children and I get to work with the age group that I love. It's wonderful being able to combine motherhood and my career and working in a job where I can really make

"I set up the pre-school 9 years ago and when I found out about Early Years Professional Status (EYPS) at a local university in London, I knew it would provide me with further knowledge and understanding of child development. During the course I found it incredibly motivating to be studying alongside other professionals and to share ideas.

"Achieving EYPS has given me the additional skills needed to further develop and build my own pre-school. But it's not only been great for me personally – I've also seen the benefits in the children. I've gained leadership skills to guide my staff and help them make positive changes to encourage children's learning and development. We've now been awarded an 'outstanding' rating by Ofsted and all my staff feel motivated to go onto to do further training

"I have never looked back since gaining EYPS. I love my role working with the under fives and wouldn't change a thing. I'd recommend EYPS to anyone that is considering working with young children. It gives you the confidence and background understanding that you need to work in the early years sec-

Three street drinkers handed Asbos

THREE men who drank, vomited, urinated and begged outside Morrisons in Wood Green have been banned from the area under an Asbo.

Mehmet Ali, 46, of Talbot Close, Tottenham, Paul Banks, 46 of High Road, Levton, and Terrence Delacy.

58, of Crescent Road, Wood Green, each received an Asbo at Tottenham Magistrates' Court. The court heard the men carried out their antisocial behaviour in broad daylight, begging for money and intimidating shoppers and passers-by. Dog fighting was also seen.

Evidence was gathered by Haringey Council's antisocial behaviour action team as well as the council's street enforcement team and Noel Park Safer Neighbourhood team. Further work is being undertaken to deal with other street drinkers who use the area.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements)
Regulations 1980.

Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement:

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

 The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre.

This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertise ments, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances. to republication of aniovariles.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publish shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order. 11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

 Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability 15. All gueries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the pub lishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testi-monials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertise-ments, other than Employment and Business Opportunities. Holiday & Travel Category All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted

Right side of corny

The Blind Side (12A)

Dir: John Lee Hancock Starring: Sandra Bullock, Quinton Aaron. Tim McGraw

MANIPULATIVE and mawkish, conventional and corny, it's the kind of old-fashioned, unsubtle tear-jerker that Hollywood does best

And yet, for all its many faults, it might still creep up on your blind side and win you over by the simple fact of being an entertaining story well told.

The fact it only happened a few vears ago doubles its appeal.

A kind of Precious for the family channel, this rapid adaptation of Michael Lewis' 2006 book focuses on gentle giant Michael Oher, a deprived black kid adopted by Leigh Anne Tuohy and her privileged white family who live in a big Memphis house.

Shy and awkward to begin with, "Big Mike" gradually opens up to the saintly, steely Leigh Anne, while his natural physical attributes are moulded into match-winning material on the football field.

(Apparently his position, left tackle, is one of the most valued positions in American football as he protects his quarterback from what he can't see coming - what he can't see on his blind side.)

With little ambiguity and every

emotional moment underscored by plinky-plonk piano or a sobbing string section, it is the classic film I love to hate.

That I didn't has something to do with the true-life resonance (effective footage at the end), poignant use of the moving poem The Charge Of The Light Brigade, and... Sandra Bullock!!!

Yes, Miss Congeniality herself won an Oscar for the role and, while it's hard to believe this was the best performance of the year, she is on fine form as dominant life force Leigh

Anne Tuohy - a lady who can hold down a top job, raise a family, work on charitable causes, adopt a problem child and still look like she's just walked out of Vogue. (Internet research proves this isn't too far off the genuine article).
Wise-cracking, ball-breaking, well-meaning, blonde-haired Bullock is perfect for the role which does require considerable acting as her frequent foil – Quinton Aaron as Oher - is a blank canvas for much of the two hours.

By Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing... My Last Five Girlfriends (12A)

Congratulations to Julian Kemp for not only writing but directing the first NO-STAR film of the decade. As exciting as a limp lettuce leaf and as funny as my dad's funeral, this is an appalling Brit anti-comedy that should be tried in The Hague for crimes against humanity.

Shutter Island (15)

Martin Scorsese rivals a crazy Johnny Depp (see below) in this bizarre, Gothic melodrama set on a prison island in the mid '50s. Watchable, it reveals its insane logic, helped by performances from Leonardo DiCaprio, Mark Ruffalo and a sinister Ben Kingsley.

Alice in Wonderland (PG)

Tim Burton's dark vision is let down by a script that borrows from every fantasy film of the past decade. Still, lots to enjoy, particularly Helena Bonham Carter and Johnny Depp fighting for the Utterly Bonkers crown as the Red Queen and Mad Hatter.

Leap Year (PG)

One of the worst films of any darn year. Ghastly rom-com about an American who goes to Ireland because, apparently, Oirish airls can propose to their suitors on February 29.

This Buddy fizzes with feelgood vibe

Buddy - The Buddy Holly Story, Upstairs at the Gatehouse

IN TEN years of reviewing shows Upstairs at the Gatehouse I can't remember enjoying one as much as this.

As the first fringe version of the phenomenally successfully West End musical, director John Plews and his team were setting themselves up for a big fall, but they pulled it off - and how.

A dazzling evocation of a period - the late 1950s - replete with one of the most talented casts seen in Highgate - doubling as singers and and music are memorably recreated by a director obviously in love with his material.

For those looking for an in-depth analysis of the Texan boy who died too young, you'd best stick to the biographies, but for those desiring a glimpse of why he was so darned good, there can be no better tribute as hit after hit spill forth in style.

Any production like this lives or dies by its lead role and within

seconds you can almost hear the trait) ignites the cracking ensemble communal sigh of relief that Roger Rowley is going to be OK.

Better than OK, in fact, as not only does he look like the gangly one but he acts and - dammit - sings like him too. Peggy Sue, That'll Be The Day and a gorgeous True Love Ways are just some of the heartfelt renditions and his nervous energy behind the mic (another Buddy who turn Upstairs into a vintage gig, quickly infecting us too.

Smoother than silk, Jason Blackwater adds to the fun in the second half as The Big Bopper and the rousing curtain-call of Johnny B Goode leaves us with the kind of feelgood spring in our step usually reserved for summertime.

appointed MS Marco Polo.

There really is nothing finer than a holiday that combines fascinating days and exciting nights, in a variety of different, interesting destinations, time spent in the company of friendly faces and all the comforts of a good hotel. This is what we have on offer on board Marco Polo in 2010 and 2011, and all at superb value prices!

In an age of vast, impersonal, floating hotels, 22,000-tonne Marco Polo, her profile marking her out as the epitome of sea-going elegance even before you've stepped aboard, is a beautiful ocean liner in the classic tradition. Offering high levels of comfort, sumptuous dining in stylish surrounds, and a genuinely warm welcome from a crew who go out of their way to place your enjoyment of your holiday above everything else, Marco Polo will offer everything you might expect of such a vessel, from the minute you first glimpse her, until the time you bid her "Adieu". Lounges and bars, restaurants, sun decks and pool, a range of comfortable cabins and a full entertainment programme by day and by night ensure your cruising pleasure, and of course there's always the ever-changing view to savour, and new ports of call to explore.

Our carefully crafted itineraries cruise the highlights of Europe and beyond. See the majestic Fjords of Norway, experience the Northern Lights, take a winter tonic in the Caribbean, enjoy the spring or autumn delights of the Canaries, Portugal and Spain or discover sights closer to home on a choice of Round Britain cruises or the charm and beauty of Ireland. If you are looking for a short break or haven't cruised before we also offer shorter itineraries to Amsterdam, the Christmas Markets of Europe and the delightful Dutch Bulbfields. Whatever cruise you are looking for, you are sure to find fabulous value, carefully selected itineraries, quality and personal standard of service and an all round memorable experience onboard Marco Polo.

Our tremendous prices mean you'll be hard pressed to find such incredible value for cruising!

See what our customers say about us...

Hi Sarah

Since your papers have such a great penetration into the market, we have had an immense response to the adverts placed.

It would be enough for us to just keep it in for one week - please do not continue the advert over to a second week!

We will surely be using your medium for future advertisements for promoting our moving services as well as other recruitment adverts.

Redknapp wants Eidur stay after striker inspires Spurs to victory

By Lee Husson

TOTTENHAM manager Harry Redknapp lauded Eidur Gudjohnsen after the former Barcelona striker stepped off the bench to grab his first Spurs goal in a priceless 2-1 win at ten-man Stoke on Saturday.

The Iceland international, a January loan signing from French outfit Monaco, replaced the injured Roman Pavlyuchenko and fired the visitors into the lead, before setting up Niko Kranjcar to hit the winner with a classy step-over.

Redknapp heaped praise on the "fantastic" Gudjohnsen after the match, and revealed he is eager to secure the forward on a permanent basis.

"I am glad we have got him because every day he comes into training and he is worth watching. Believe you me, he is a fantastic footballer. Technically he is top drawer," he said.

"You don't play for Chelsea and Barcelona if you are not a great player. He is a fantastic footballer in my opinion.

"I want to keep him here next year. The chairman did the deal for him and I don't know the details, but we are certainly interested. The rest of the lads like him and they really love playing with him." Gudjohnsen himself said that moving Gudjohnsen himself said that moving back to England has given him a new lease of life after an unhappy six-month spell in Monaco.

"Football is about being happy what you're doing and I feel alive since I came back to England," he said.

"In France I just didn't enjoy it. I didn't connect to my surroundings. When you do that and you're not happy in your work, it's difficult to get the best out of yourself.

"Of course getting into the Champions League is at the back of our minds. We're in fourth place and we're going to try to protect that for as long as we can."

Meanwhile Robbie Keane insists that he is returning to White Hart Lane at the end of the season after his loan move to Celtic.

Reports had suggested that the Irishman would be staying at Parkhead, but Keane has quashed the rumours.

He said: "I've got a three-year contract at Tottenham so I will go back there in the summer.

"It's just a loan move and always has been."

Point keeps 'Boro above the drop zone

Oxhey Jets 2 Haringey Borough 2

Molten Spartan Premier Division

A DRAW at Oxhey Jets on Saturday was enough to keep Haringey Borough out of the Spartan Premier Division's drop zone on goal difference.

Although a good recent run of form had seemed to end Haringey's fears of relegation, Kentish Town's dramatic revival – which has seen them win four of their past six matches – has led to them sliding back into trouble.

Borough took the lead in the 11th minute at Oxhey, Adam Scotcher muscling his way in from the left and firing a shot across keeper Sam

Styles low into the far corner.

But the hosts got back on level terms eight minutes later when a flowing move left Lee Armitt free to drive home a low shot from the edge of the box.

Borough enjoyed plenty of possession in the remainder of the half, but were unable to make it count and paid the price when Armitt struck again from a similar position on 38 minutes.

Lloyd Opara confidently drove home an equaliser for the visitors six minutes into the second half, but clear-cut chances were at a premium for the remainder of the contest – although Borough keeper Brian Sealey did make one fine save late in the match to ensure that the points were shared.

Haringey Borough host Broxbourne Borough on Saturday (3pm), before entertaining Aylesbury on Tuesday (7.45pm).
